Among Magazines.

It is the aim of the publishers of the Burr McIntosh Monthly "the most beautiful magazine in the world" to make each issue more beautiful and attractive than its predecessor and they have certainly accomplished

their object in the November number. The cover printed in exquisite colors is a reproduction of a famous painting and cannot fail to please lovers of the beautiful. The issue

contains two very attractive inserts

printed in red entitled "Halloween"

and "On Duty" beside a number of color panels.

The portrait form contains such people as Blanche Bates, Mary Mannering, Clara Bloodgood, Mrs. Russell Sage, and several actresses famous on the French stage. Among the People of Note is a very fine

photograph of the late Richard

Manfield and this issue also contains a very interesting and instructive article on China. Two pages are given to the reproduction of 125 of the pictures submitted in our Children's contest.

THANKSGIVING "HIO."

The Thanksgiving number of The

WILLIAM MARCONI.

It was in 1901 that William Marconi first succeeded in transmitting wireless signals across the Atlantic from Poldhu, Cornwall, to St. John's, N. F., a distance of 2,100 miles, and in the six years since that time the inventor has been busy in improving his system, so as to make it of the utmost practical value. The beginning of commercial wireless service across the Atlantic on Oct. 17 marked an epoch in the history of telegraphy. On that date the first regular commercial message was sent across the ocean by Premier Laurier of Canada, congratulating the British people on the achievements of Marconi. The inventor was born in Bologna, Italy, in 1875.

ment of his new story, "A Counter-felt Coin," appears in this magazine. The scenes of the story are laid almost wholly in Ohio, and have a coloring local to the Muskingum valley.

The second article of the series on the Men's Clubs of Ohio is devoted to "The Clubs of Toledo," by Lucius J. Beecher. The article is beautifully illustrated and sets forth the history and usefulness of the numerous city, country and yachting clubs of Toledo in a most attractive and readable manner.

An exceedingly valuable historical contribution is by J. Howard Galbraith, dealing with "The Kosciscus Lands," which are identified as lying near the village of Dublin, Ohio. A hundred years ago the government voted them to Kosciscus, the great Polish-American patriot, in recognition of his services in the Revolution. Mr. Galbraith identifies the lands by the aid of official maps, reproduced in his article for the first time.

Dr. Isaac Josiah Cox writes a timely forecast of the approaching Ohio Valley Historical Conference at Cincinnati; Howard Louis Couard contributes an illustrated article entitled "Tucson the Age Claimant," in which he disputes recent allegations made in favor of a prior civilization in Arizona, and other special writers offer equally valuable material for literary digestion. There are some exceptionally readable poems in this number by Webster P. Huntington, William L. Bloomer and others.

The Thanksgiving number of The Ohio Magazine is also a special

MRS. WILLIAM MARCONI.

The wife of William Marconi, who recently established commercial wireless telegraph service across the Atlantic, was the Hon. Beatrice O'Brien, daughter of the fourteenth Baron Inchiquin. She is a beauty of the Irish type. Mr. Marconi's mother was of Irish birth.

KEPT HIS ENGAGEMENT.

Was Ready to Make Good on the Hot Air Proposition.

"I'm not much of a hand at eyes dropping," said a thoughtful looking man the other day, "but I couldn't help listening to the line of hot air, four flush talk that a fellow behind me on the Euclid bench was a few nights ago was handing to a girl. He kept it up all the way from East Ninth street clear out to the beach."

"Most of the talk he was getting off was about the princely salary his firm had to put up to keep him and about how smooth he was."

"I turned around and looked at the two of them out of the tail of my eye, and then I knew how he managed to get away with it, for the girl was one of those wiled looking affairs that would believe you if you told her you were the man that built Niagara falls. I also turned my lamps on him and he looked to me like a man whom you could rob of an entire two weeks' salary and yet commit only petit larceny."

"But I couldn't help listening to his talk. After awhile I heard him give the girl his telephone number. 'Call me up some afternoon when you're down town,' he said, 'and we'll have lunch together.'"

"I jotted down his phone number and waited to get some clew to his name. By and by I heard her call him Frank, and I thought that would do."

"Two days after that about noon I had my stenographer call up his number and ask for Frank. Then I had her tell him that she wanted that lunch he promised her on the Euclid beach car. Frank was right in for it, and said that he would go over and order a lunch at a hotel that he mentioned. The girl promised to meet him in half an hour, if he would go ahead and order."

"In about 20 minutes I went over to watch developments. There sat my hot-air neighbor of the beach car at a little table set for two, waiting—patiently waiting. I went away and came back for another look an hour later, and he was still waiting."

Lost in the Telephone.

Henry Abraham has calculated the maximum effectiveness of the telephone for a sound of given pitch and a current of measured intensity. The result shows that there is great room for improvement in this respect. Notwithstanding the apparent extreme sensitivity of the best telephones, they are, after all, surprisingly ineffective, since they transmit to the ear in the form of sound waves less than a thousandth part of the energy received from the line.

Butter in Bogs.

From time to time lumps of butter are dug out of the Irish bogs, and specimens of it may be seen in various museums. A chemical examination has recently been made of a sample of such butter, which was found four feet below the surface of a bog at Maghera, County Tyrone. The original lump, which weighed about 20 pounds, is probably some centuries old, and it is suggested that it had been put into peat water to preserve it or to give it a flavor and had been
